Whether the counseling experience is for an individual, couple or a family, people want a safe place and a competent caring counselor with whom to begin the process of opening up their most private world for healing. We see counseling as a “restoration process”. Couples and individuals begin to regain the ability to come towards each other and again feel the freedom to give and receive love and feel restored. Joel 2:25 says that “restoration” is the process of regaining the feeling of a “safe place” where a relationship can prosper.

Everyone has the basic need to be loved and to love.*

Relationships, whether they are in marriage or friendship or at work are where people find joy, fulfillment, happiness, and a sense of wholeness.

Relationships are also where people experience deep pain, neglect, abandonment, rejection and loneliness.

Thus life relationships are both the places for healing, health and pain in varying degrees.

The counseling process gives the opportunity to examine hurts, whether from childhood or adulthood, in an emotionally comfortable and confidential environment to find solutions and healing.
